

Mandatory Readings for Basics Workshops

(to read before Summer School)

Basics Workshop 1:

All participants who attend the Basics Workshop 1 are expected to read the following article on Anti-Fascist economics:

- Anti-fascist economics? For sure! But what does that mean?
Anti-fascist economics? For sure! But what does that mean? | Exploring Economics

Basics Workshop 2:

All participants who attend Basics Workshop 2 are expected to read the following articles:

Anti-Fascist economics (mandatory):

- Anti-fascist economics? For sure! But what does that mean?
Anti-fascist economics? For sure! But what does that mean? | Exploring Economics

Limits of empiricism (mandatory):

- Morgan, Jamie. "Critical realism as a social ontology for economics." Handbook of research methods and applications in heterodox economics. Edward Elgar Publishing, 2016. 15-34.
Critical Realism as a social ontology for economics

Refresher on Paradigms:

Participants are expected to know the core assumptions and ideas of these paradigms in order to follow the discussions. If you think that you might benefit from a small refresher, the Exploring Economics webpage has helpful resources:

- Ecological Economics | Exploring Economics
- Marxian Political Economy | Exploring Economics
- Complexity Economics | Exploring Economics